

From: Christopher Franch [e-mail address redacted]
Sent: Wednesday, November 30, 2011 9:11 AM
To: SatelliteOffices
Subject: California

In light of the major tech hubs that exist in Southern and Northern California, to account for the abundance of patent and trademark cases in the Ninth Circuit, and functionally to account for the 3 hour time delay as between the USPTO today and the Pacific time zone, I think a satellite office in San Francisco or San Diego would do much to serve the entire west coast.