Subject: Reinforce of quality of patent

To whom it may concern,

Any company suing someone with a board patent will cost the other end a lot of money, especially small companies. At this economy, that is robbery. There need to be some kind pre court ruling body before enter into court to reduce cost.

Need something to protect small companies against board patent.

On top of that, one must be currently using that patent in order to reinforce it. Don't go suing someone without that to back you up.
